Each SunPower AC module functions independently, making your whole system more reliable, and your rooftop more productive. With conventional technology, the system performs only as well as its weakest panel. This can dramatically reduce output due to shade or other real-world challenges, even small debris like leaves.

We manufacture high quality solar photovoltaic modules in our American and Canadian facilities. The supply chains are short, and our modules are never held up in port or customs. And we meet requirements for the Buy American and also the American Recovery and Reinvestment Acts.
