Are coin lockers a good idea in Japan?

Coin lockers are highly convenient if you want to explore a few hours before you head to your next destination! At coin lockers, you can store your luggage like a suitcase or a backpack. You can expect them at major train stations in Japan, and you may also find them at train stations in smaller tourist towns.

Do Japanese train stations have coin lockers?

Traveling around Japan is an incredible experience, but hauling heavy luggage can quickly put a damper on your adventures. Fortunately, coin lockers are a convenient storage solution found in most Japanese train stations, allowing you to stow your bags and explore cities hands-free.

Does Haneda Airport have luggage lockers?

Haneda also has baggage lockers, with the ones in T1 and T2 offering 3-days of use, while those in T3 can be used for 7-days. All coin lockers in Haneda Airport are located outside of the arrival and departure gates. Luggage delivery services can be a good alternative to luggage storage.

What kind of lockers do Tokyo stations use?

Most stations in central Tokyo use electronic lockers that allow you to pay with IC cards like Suica and Pasma, which is handy. Electronic lockers have English guidance, too. Smaller stations and stations in rural areas may still use classic key-style lockers. If you leave your items for longer than three days, the station staff will clear them.

How much does a Japanese station locker cost?

Japanese station lockers come in two main varieties: key-operated and keyless. Key-operated lockers are straightforward to use - simply insert your coins, lock the door, and keep the key with you. These lockers typically only accept 100-yen coins, with fees ranging from 200-400 yen for small sizes, 400-600 yen for medium, and 600-800 yen for large.

What if coin lockers aren't meeting your needs?

If coin lockers aren't meeting your needs, you have a few backup options: Temporary baggage storage counters: Major stations like Tokyo and Kyoto have manned luggage rooms where you can safely stow bags for the day for around 500-700 yen per piece.
