

Can the bedside be placed in a locker

What is a patient bedside locker?

Patient bedside lockers provide a dedicated space for personal belongings, promoting a sense of control and comfort during hospitalization. Patients can keep essential items close at hand, reducing the need to rely on hospital staff for access to personal belongings.

Why should you choose a hospital bedside locker?

Our successful ranges of hospital bedside lockers offer both quality craftsmanship and a product that will endure the test of time and patient turnover. Although robust, the designs are lightweight and compact which ensures they are easy to manoeuvre for both staff and patients.

How to choose a bedside locker?

If you have a bed with a bold coloured headboard, then you may opt for a more neutral bedside locker so that you don't overpower the space. Alternatively, if you have a minimalist decor style, you may opt for a locker to serve as a main design feature. Height: The height of your bedside locker is one of the key factors to consider.

What are bedside lockers used for?

Bedside lockers are used as lamp tables, for storage, an aesthetic finishing touch, and a catch-all for personal essentials. Whether you've just moved to a new home, are updating your bedroom, or finally choosing new pieces, this guide will help you choose the ideal bedside lockers for your life, and personal style!

What is a combination bedside locker?

The larger combination bedside lockers include a self-medicating drop-down flap which allows patients to store and access their medication with ease. The safety of a patient's personal belongings is very important which is why nearly all of our hospital lockers come fitted with a range of locking options including suited locking and Master keys.

Are bedside medication lockers safe?
