Where can I get free solar panels?

Some local cities and counties also offer direct rebates to help with the upfront costs of solar panel installations. If you're looking for free solar panels, or at least solar panels with less cost upfront, solar leases, solar loans, and community solar are good options.

Does the government offer free solar panels?

The government does not have any programs that offer totally free solar panels. However, several state and federal government programs can help you access solar energy equipment with lower upfront costs. These tax credits and incentives can reduce solar installation costs, making solar energy more accessible.

What is a 'free solar panel' offer?

While "free solar panel" offers are common, that's usually not the whole story. Often, it's actually a solar lease or power purchase agreement with $0 down, meaning "free" only lasts until the first monthly payment is due. Learn more about these claims.

Are free solar panels a scam?

If free solar panels sound too good to be true, it's because they are. Solar panels cost money, and these ads are, at best, misleading attempts to push solar leases and, at worst, complete scams. In this article, we'll pull back the curtain on free solar panel claims by comparing solar leases with solar purchase options.

Is it a good idea to get free solar panels?

Getting free solar panels through a solar lease or Power Purchase Agreement (PPA) can save you money on your electricity bill. The payments for the solar energy you use are typically lower than what you paid your utility company. With a solar lease, you'll be given a flat fee to pay to the solar company each month.

Are free solar panels a lie?

While the word "free" implies there are no associated costs, this is not usually the case with free solar panel offers. "I have never seen an advertisement offering free solar that is not a lie," said Neil Gallagher of Brighterway Solar, a solar installation company in Florida.
