Smart Energy LAB is an organization for developing any new product, service, or process that accelerates the business of companies offering New Energy Downstream solutions. We do it by combining three levers of acceleration of the end-user energy transition - Client adoption, Transactional cost reduction and Technology adaptation for delivery.

ECONLUX GmbH was one of the first companies in the lighting industry to establish LEDs in Germany. Starting with energy-saving solutions -- according to the slogan "Save Energy, Save Money" -- initially with solutions for replacing T8 fluorescent tubes with T5 tubes using special adapters, the idea of replacing fluorescent tubes with LEDs in general quickly emerged.
