Does the government offer free solar panels?

The government does not have any programs that offer totally free solar panels. However, several state and federal government programs can help you access solar energy equipment with lower upfront costs. These tax credits and incentives can reduce solar installation costs, making solar energy more accessible.

Are 'free' solar panels a good idea?

Companies often offer "free" solar panels through leases or power purchase agreements (PPAs), where they install and maintain the panels at no upfront cost. "Free" solar panels can result in initial savings on your energy bills, but in the long run, the savings may not be as significant as owning your solar panels outright.

Are there free solar panels for low-income families?

The U.S. has no federal programs offering free solar panels for low-income families. Some states may offer a similar program, but it is rare. Below are two examples of programs offered in California and Maryland.
Location: California

Do low-income solar programs offer free solar panels?

Low-income solar programs don't typically provide completely free solar panels, but they can greatly reduce installation costs. Most of the programs provide rebates or grants to cover the majority of rooftop solar installation costs for qualified applicants, but there may still be some costs or payments required.

Are "free" solar panels a scam?

However, it's important to note that "free" solar panels are not always a scam, but they do require careful consideration. These "free" solar panels are typically offered through solar panel leases or power purchase agreements (PPAs), which allow individuals to install solar panels without the high expense.

Are free solar panels a lie?

While the word "free" implies there are no associated costs, this is not usually the case with free solar panel offers. "I have never seen an advertisement offering free solar that is not a lie," said Neil Gallagher of Brighterway Solar, a solar installation company in Florida.
