Siltech's products are consistently well reviewed, but there's no substitute for auditioning our cables, electronics and loudspeakers for yourself. That's why we work with a global network of trusted distributors to make this possible. See the map below to find your country's exclusive Siltech distributor.

I think the most consequent way of power cabling is the elimination of most plugs, by using a dedicated line from the breaker box, a stove type wall receptacle that accepts bare wire with screw-in terminals and then a distribution box in which all the downstream cables are hardwired in a star-like configuration. Eliminates 50% of all interfaces and comes closest to ...
